

Selling Spirits in Washington State

JULY 2015

Distributors

Effective March 1, 2012, spirits distributors may begin selling spirits in Washington to on-premises licensees, off-premises licensees, and to other distributors.

How Taxes Apply to the Sale of Spirits

Spirits sales are subject to Washington taxes administered by the Department of Revenue.

Spirits Taxes (RCW 82.08.150)

Sales to On-Premises Licensees

(Restaurants, bars, taverns, etc., selling spirits for on-premises consumption by the drink)

Distributors must collect and remit the spirits taxes on all sales of spirits in their original container to on-premises licensees as follows:

- Spirits sales tax at the rate of 13.7 percent of the selling price
- Spirits liter tax at the rate of $2.4408 per liter

Sales to Off-Premises Licensees and Distributors

(Grocery stores and other retailers selling spirits in the original container for off-premises consumption)

Sales of spirits to off-premises licensees and other distributors are not subject to the spirits sales tax or spirits liter tax.

Spirits Samples

If you provide samples of spirits (without additional charge) in the original package, which were previously purchased from another person, you owe the spirits taxes as follows:

- Spirits sales tax at the rate of 20.5 percent of your purchase price for the spirits provided as a sample
- Spirits liter tax at the rate of $3.7708 per liter

Distributors owe the spirits taxes on these samples because they are considered to be the consumer of such spirits.

To report these samples on your excise tax return, you should report these samples under the Spirits Sales to Consumers, Spirits Liter Sales to Consumers tax classifications.

Due to how spirits taxes are reported on the e-file tax return, you also must report your samples under the Retail Sales and Retailing B&O tax classifications. Under the Retailing B&O tax classification you may report an Other deduction and in the explanation state Deferred Spirits Taxes for all of your spirits samples. Under the Retail Sales tax classification you may report a Sales of Spirits deduction for all of your spirits samples. By reporting these deductions you will not owe any retail sales tax or retailing B&O tax on the samples.

Delivery Charges

Amounts charged by a spirits seller for delivering spirits to a buyer's location are subject to the spirits sales tax. This includes charges designated as delivery, freight, mileage, shipping, fuel surcharge, etc. If the delivered goods include spirits and other goods that are not spirits, such as wine, beer and other tangible personal property, one of the following percentages must be used to determine the portion of the delivery charges subject to spirits sales tax:

- The total sales price of the spirits compared to the total sales price of the delivered goods.
- The total weight of the spirits compared to the total weight of the delivered goods.

If the sale of the delivered spirits was exempt from spirits sales taxes, then the delivery charges on those spirits are also exempt from spirits sales tax.

Sales in Indian Country

Sales of spirits delivered in Indian Country to tribal businesses or enrolled member/citizens are exempt from spirits taxes. See the fact sheet titled: Sales Involving Tribes

Business and Occupation (B&O) Tax

The gross income received from the sale of spirits to on-premises licensees, off-premises licensees, and other distributors is subject to the B&O tax under the Wholesaling classification.

Retail Sales Tax (RCW 82.08.020)

The general retail sales tax does not apply on sales of spirits in their original containers.
