8 General information

Nonprofit organizations, even though they may be exempt from federal taxes, are not generally exempt from property taxes in Washington state. Unless the nonprofit organization is exclusively using the property to conduct an activity specifically exempted by the Legislature, it is required to pay property taxes in the same manner as other entities. The exempt activities are found in Chapter 84.36 of the Revised Code of Washington (RCW). Additional information regarding these exemptions is located in Chapter 458-16 of the Washington Administrative Code (WAC). A helpful reference matrix is included with this application.

Ownership

Generally, ownership by a nonprofit entity is required to qualify for exemption. However, some statutes allow nonprofit organizations to lease property and remain eligible for exemption. In these cases the lease must transfer the responsibility for the property taxes to the nonprofit.

Filing date

Applications are due within 60 days of acquiring the property and/or converting the property to an exempt use. Applications requesting a retroactive exemption are accepted as long as the application is filed within three years of the date the taxes were due. Late or retroactive applications are subject to late filing penalties.

Appeal process

After the department reviews your initial application and/or renewal, they will issue a determination of taxability. If you do not agree with the Department of Revenue's determination, you have the right to appeal to the Washington State Board of Tax Appeals (Board). Your appeal must be filed with the Board within 30 calendar days of the date the determination was mailed or emailed. You must allow for mailing time within the 30 day period. To obtain an appeal form, call the Board at 360-753-5446 or visit their website at www.bta.state.wa.us.

Annual renewals due March 31

To keep your property tax exemption, you are required to submit an annual renewal. The Department of Revenue (department) sends a notice each year in January, reminding nonprofits to renew their exemption online (www.dor.wa.gov) prior to the March 31 deadline. The renewal process cannot be used to add property to an existing exemption. Organizations wanting to add previously taxed property to an existing exemption must submit a new application.

Report changes in use

After the exemption has been granted, any change in use or ownership must be reported to the Property Tax division of the Department of Revenue within 60 days of the change.

Jeopardizing the exemption

Washington's laws and rules restrict the manner in which exempt property may be used. To qualify for and maintain exempt status the property must be exclusively used to conduct the exempted activity. All other activities including commercial activities must be severely restricted. Property may be exempt in part if a portion of the property does not initially qualify, or fails to continue to qualify for the exemption.

Tax rollback

When an exempt property is no longer used for the purpose under which an exemption was granted, and has not been exempt for the required number of years, the property may be subject to rollback provisions. This means taxes, plus interest, may be assessed for the current year plus the three previous years. There are several exceptions to this rule. Please contact the Department of Revenue's Property Tax division for more information.
